to meet with committees of other yearly meetings in conference at Baltimore: to consult in relation to the present state of our religious society, to whom was referred by this meeting the communications from Uxbridge and Rhode Island Monthly Meetings, Reports. That we brought those subjects before the united committees, and that it appeared to be the solid sense of all the Friends there assembled, that under the painful circumstances in which we are situated, in relation to Philadelphia & Ohio Yearly Meetings, the cause of truth will be best subserved by our abiding in patience in relation to the interpositions to the good order of society in regard to certificates, even though it may require individual suffering - that we be careful on our part faithfully to maintain our own Discipline, so far as any action of ours is concerned - That tender and sympathetic encouragement should be extended to those members who may in some respects be deprived of those rights, which they have not forfeited by any acts of ~~their~~ ^{their} own, trusting that way will open in the orderings of truth, for the removal of those difficulties which are now so seriously interrupting the harmony of society.

a summary to forward to the quarterly meeting by our representatives, Phebe S. Marsh, Anna Bassett Ann B. Carle & Ann K. Collon, who are requested to report their attendance next month.

Ann K. Collon, Clerk

In transacting the business of this meeting as has been occurred, under the rule of discipline first adopted in 1775, and which, after having been suspended in many years, was re-adopted in 1830. By this rule, as member is forbidden to marry a deceased wife's sister or a deceased husband's brother; and this meeting has been brought under exercise in relation to it, the result of which has been a united conclusion to present the subject to the consideration of the quarterly meeting and ask its concurrence in carrying it up to the yearly meeting.

If this rule does not rest for its authority on scriptural prohibition of such marriages, or a belief that they are immoral in their nature, we can see no good reasons for its existence. But if they are prohibited by scripture, and are therefore against morality, then it is believed, by a portion of our members, that all who violate the rule should be excluded from membership with us, so long as they remain together in the marriage relation, because the offence consists not merely in entering into that relation, but equally in remaining in it. If it is wrong in itself at first it is equally so, always, at all times, and the reason for the exclusion remains equally as strong so long as it exists, as it was at first; and it is very plain, that no satisfaction can be made to society for an offence, so long as the offence itself is persisted in. The belief that this is a correct view of the subject is confirmed by what is understood to be the construction of the rule in other places where it has prevailed, yet a different construction has been put upon the rule, in some portions at least, of this yearly meeting, and persons continuing in this relation, in violation of it, are permitted to remain in membership with us.

We would therefore, bring the subject to the notice of the yearly meeting, and ask its consideration, thereof the more especially as it is understood that the yearly meeting adjoining us where the same rule heretofore
